1.2. THAMESMEAD REDEVELOPMENT (PLAN MAKING STUDIO II MODULE, UCL, LONDON, UK 2024)

REDEVELOPMENT

The project's aim was to propose a strategic plan for redeveloping Thamesmead, the famous estate in South East London.

During ten weeks, six people with diverse backgrounds participated in this project. We delivered a particular part of the project each week. We had two weeks to design the final posters.

Increasing the local creative economy and improving housing and social infrastructure are our strategies for increasing social mobility.

Furthermore, we realized that our policies might lead to gentrification and displacement. As a result, we developed mitigation policies and a governance framework for co-creation.

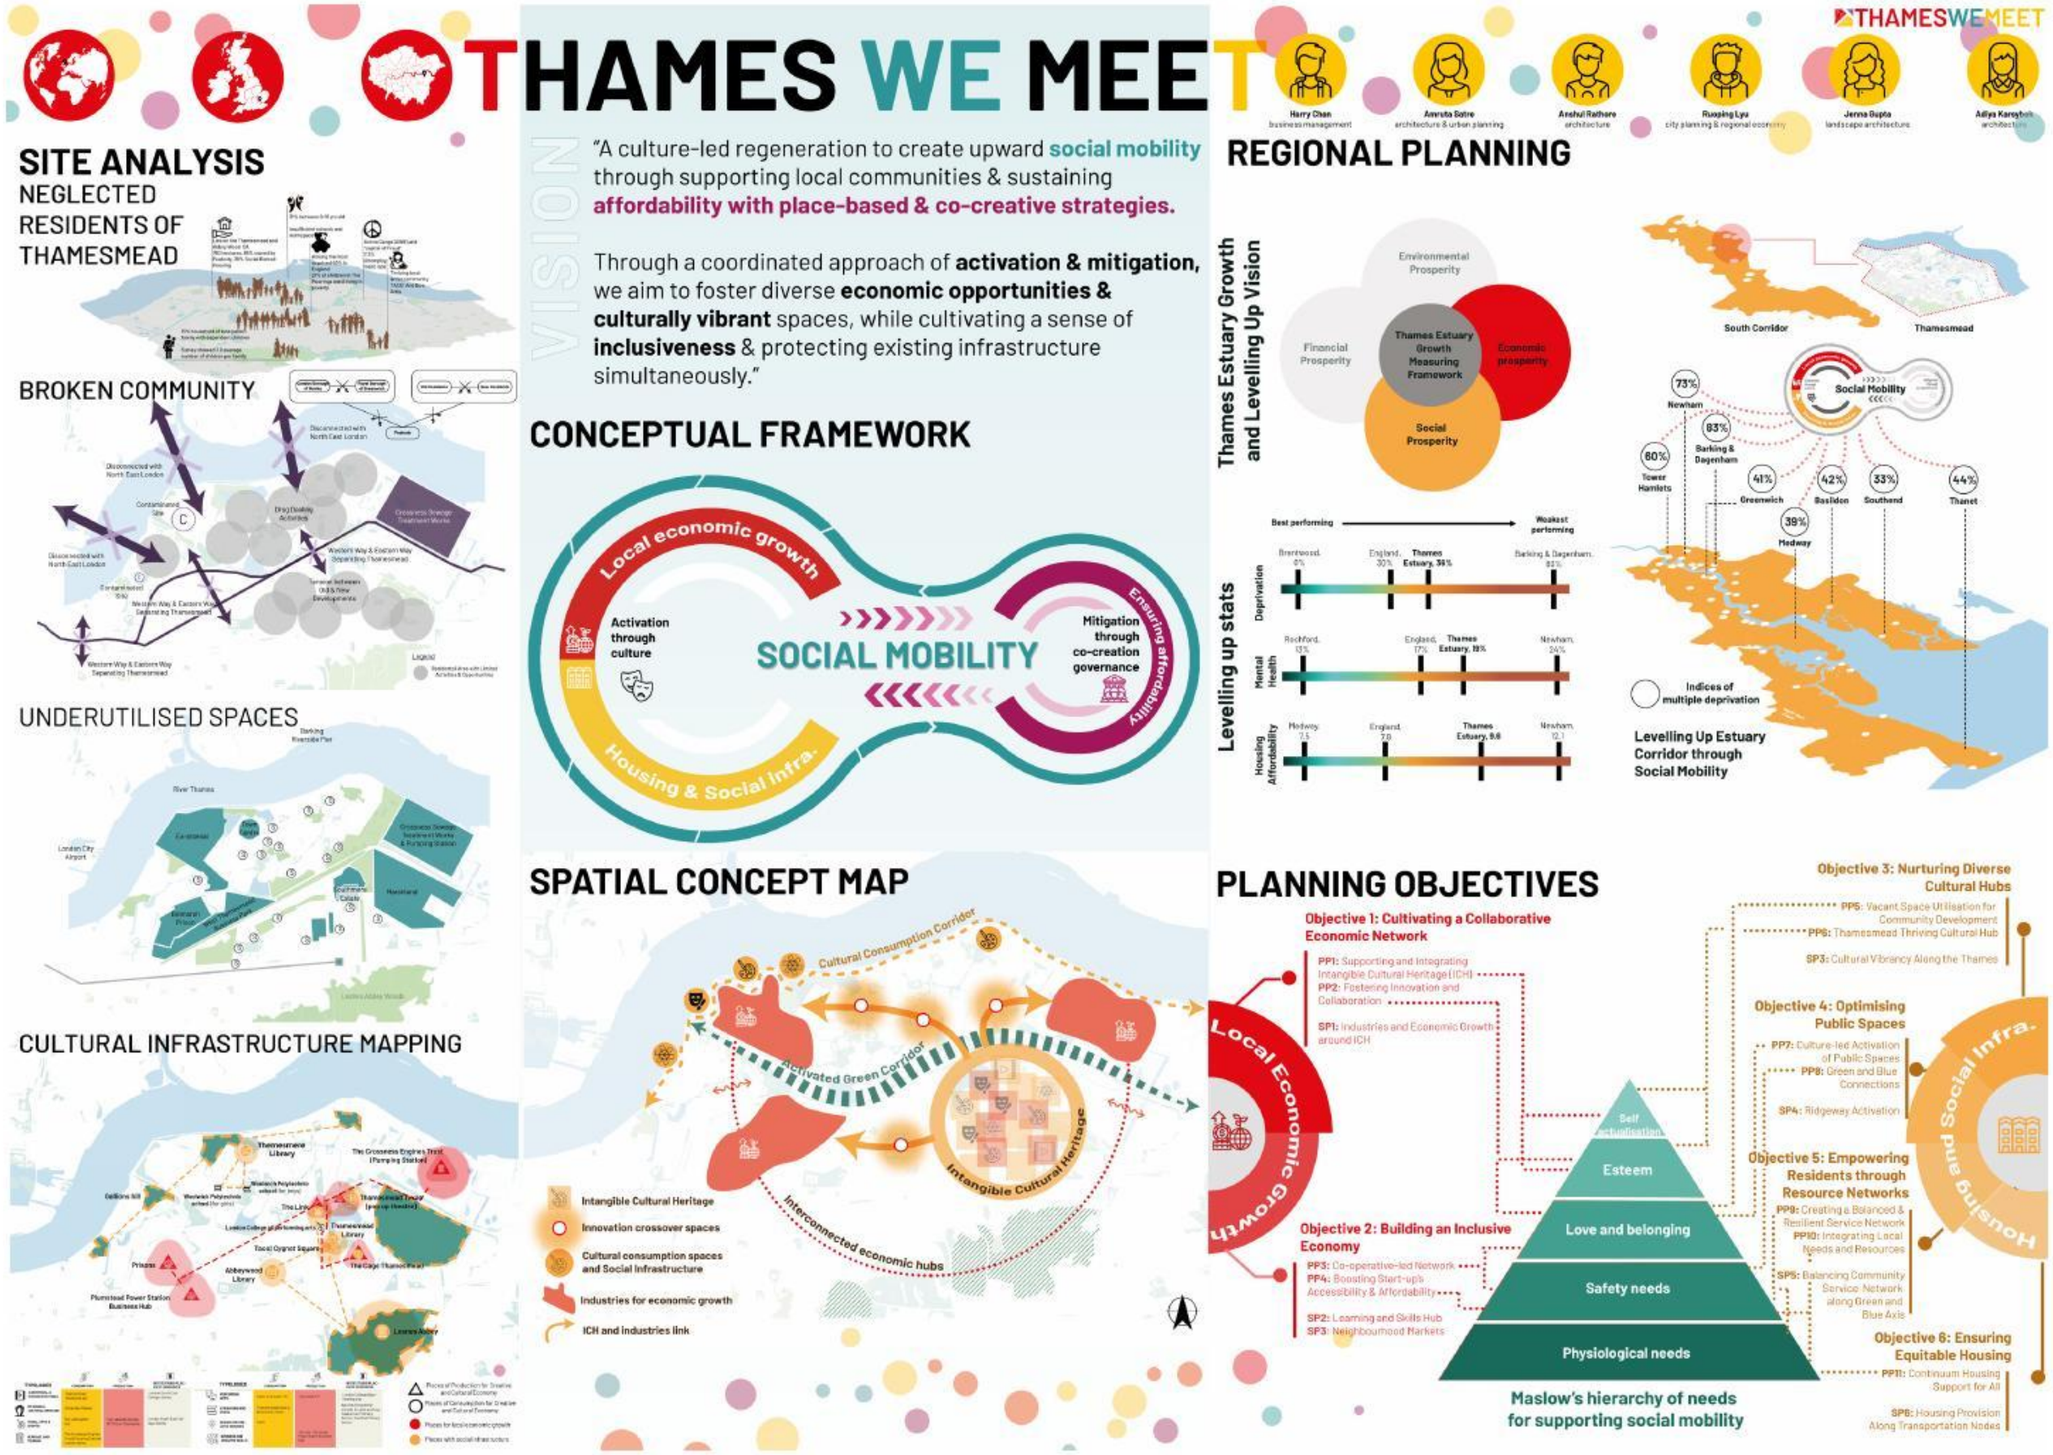

Figure 1.3: Poster 1 explains the stategic rationale behind planning and spatial policies via site, regional and desktop research and analysis

My role was to develop the open spaces policies and the layout of the posters. As a team we all involved in conceptual framework, spatial and plan development.

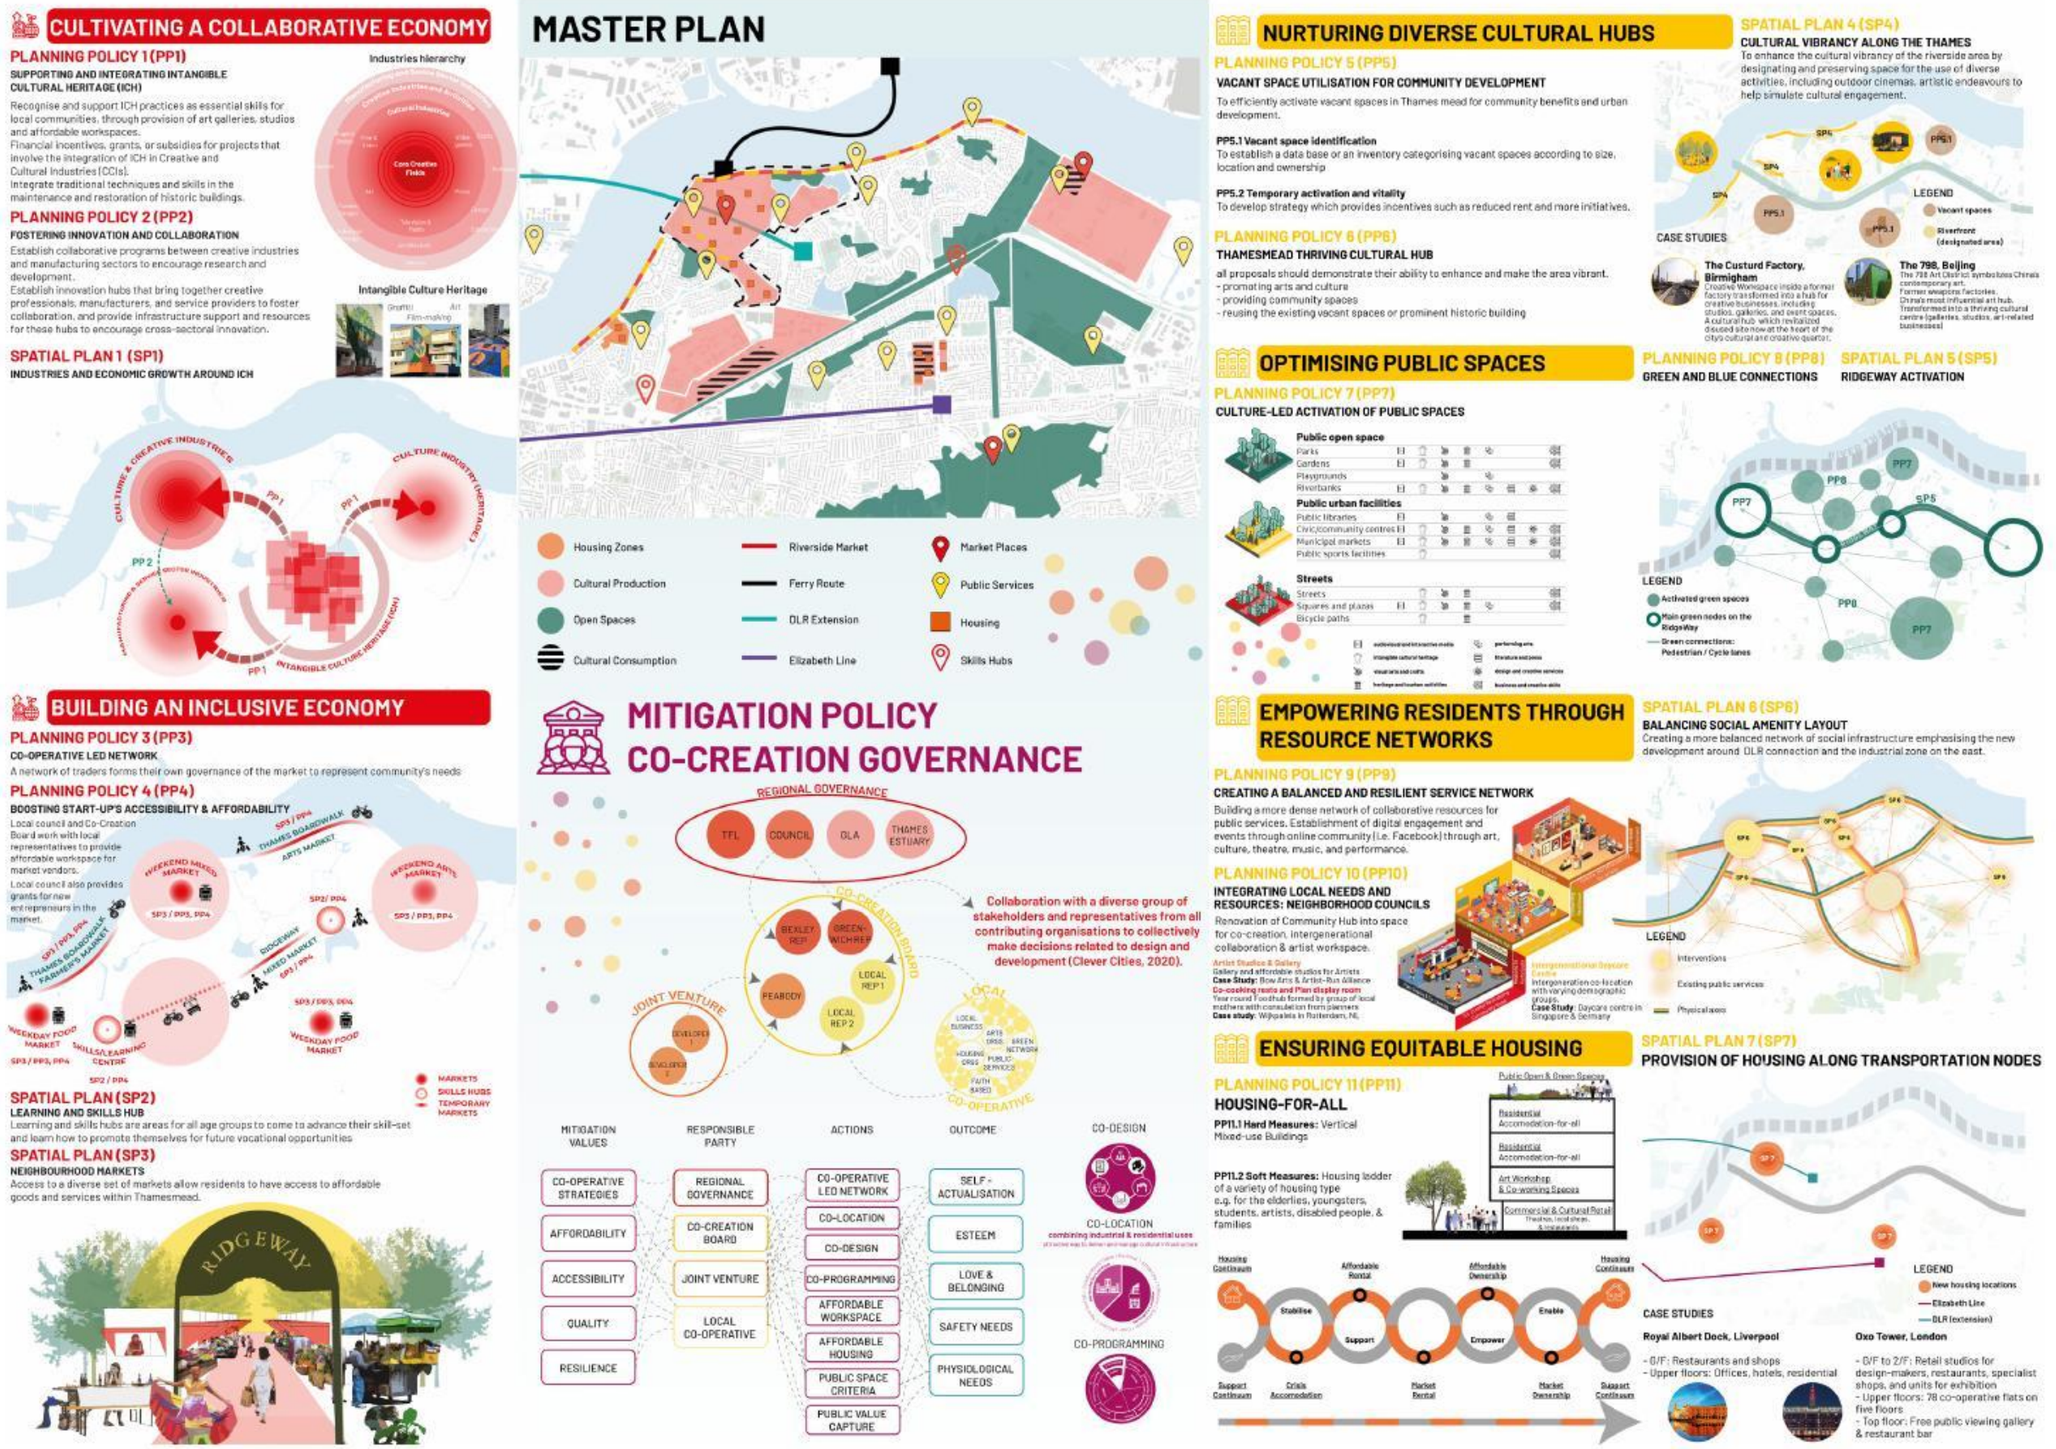

Figure 14: Poster 2 shows tactical solutions and mitigation policies for the strategic plan application